BETTY NUCHOLS

Polio Victim Holds Art Show

Betty Nuchols was living in Appomattox County when she contracted Polio at the age of four, leaving her with paralysis of both legs and her right arm.

In 1952, shortly after her 6th birthday, she was placed in the St. Anne's Mission Home near Charlottesville, Va. During the past several years she has had numberous operations on her hand and wrist, and for the past nine years has been confined to a wheelchair.

Now Betty is nineteen years old and in spite of her handicap has taken, through correspondence, both her high school and art courses.

Through her own savings and gifts from friends, she now has a motorized wheelchair and attends art school in Charlottesville. A friend in Charlottesville who owns the Brace store that supplies braces for the University Hospital and local clinics, provides Betty with transportation to and from the art school. Her one-man show was held in Arlington, Virginia, at St. George's Episcopal Church.

Truly an example for us all is this independent young woman. Without funds for an education she followed her interest and has succeeded. Her future should be of interest to all of us.

Crash Kills Young Man

A young father-to-be was killed early Sunday when he was thrown out of his auto as it crashed into a telephone pole on Rt. 460 on the western outskirts of Appomattox, resulting in ineligible injuries for two other occupants.

Dead is 21 - year old Larry Houston Johnson, of Appomattox. Johnson, whose widow is expecting what would have been the young couple's first child in April died instantly in the one a.m. crash.

William Floyd Thomas, 22, released after being held for observation at Lynchburg General Hospital, and Johnson's brother-in-law, Haven Leonard Fields, 17, both of whom were riding in the front seat of the car, escaped with only superficial scratches.

State Trooper S. R. Simpson, said Johnson apparently lost control of his eastbound auto as the trio rode around a slight curve during a drizzling rainfall.

The car slid off the road into the telephone pole, snapping it at the base, and then skidded smoothly over 110 feet before coming to a rest in an upright position, he said.

Trooper Simpson said Johnson was thrown from the car as it slid sideways into the telephone pole and apparently was thrown head-first into "either the pole or some of the debris lying about."

The 1954 sedan Johnson drove was demolished by the crash, Simpson said.

Chorus To Present Costumed Concert

The Appomattox Civic Chorus voted Monday night to present a Centennial Concert in May, complete with costumes of the period, 1847-65. The Chorus listened to tapes of two previous concerts, the spring concert of 1964 and December's presentation of The Messiah.

Business for the event were Miss Rosa Mae Wooldridge at whose home the meeting was held, plus members of the Chorus' social committee.

Will Sing April 3

The Chorus will sing at least two selections during the forthcoming Beauty Pageant sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club and set for April 3 at Appomattox High School.

Effective Jan. 1

Farmers National Will Pay Quarterly Interest On Savings

Effective January 1, 1965, Savings customers at Farmers National Bank, Appomattox, Va., will begin having their 4 per cent per year interest paid and compounded quarterly. All money continuously on deposit in a customer's savings account will earn the 4 per cent per annum rate.

Customers will no longer have to wait a one-year period before the 4 per cent rate can be reflected in their accounts. Farmers National is taking advantage of the more liberal interest regulations approved by the Federal Reserve Bank, November 24, 1965.

Before the new ruling went into effect, member banks of the Federal Reserve system were not allowed to pay more than 3 percent interest on savings which remained on deposit less than one year.

The extra one-half percent was allowed for all savings which stayed in the account for a year or longer. This split rate made interest calculations confusing for bankers and customers for the past three years.

DeWitt Evans, of Farmers National Bank, said, "We are glad of the opportunity to eliminate the one year waiting period and to pay compound interest quarterly. Interest will be paid and compounded at the end of each quarter of the calendar year, that is, on the last day of March June, Sept. and Dec. of each year.

Heritage Delays Decision

Appomattox Heritage officers and board, meeting here Friday, delayed a decision on whether to employ the John B. Rogers Company to plan and supervise a week's Commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Surrender at Appomattox.

The group will meet Wednesday, January 20 at 1 p.m. in Appomattox. Representatives from Lynchburg, Prince Edward County, Farmville, and Buckingham met with Appomattox members and agreed to confer further with their respective areas before coming to a decision.

The Rogers Co. plan includes a week of activities, including an historical seminar, fashion shows and teas, historical tours, a nightly pageant with fireworks display, and merchants' promotional activities carrying out a theme of "life 100 years ago."

Centennial Planning Meet Set 18th

James J. Geary, executive director of the state Civil War Centennial Commission, during a visit to Appomattox on Friday, stated that plans for the Centennial commemoration on April 9, 1965 would be discussed in Richmond during a meeting set for Mon., Jan. 18.

William C. Hubbard, county Centennial chairman, has been asked to attend, said Geary. Geary stated that initial plans for the 100th anniversary of the surrender of Southern armies by General Lee to General Grant at Appomattox, include the appearance of the U. S. Marine Band, the dedication of the old Appomattox Court House, reconstructed on the original site and just recently completed at Appomattox Court House National Historical Park, and the appearance of a speaker of national importance.

A just completed Civil War theme motion picture will be shown in the new theater in the Court House, said Geary.

Rebellettes Lose First Game

The Rebellettes fought for a lead in the third and fourth quarters Friday night but never could find the room. The William Campbell Generalettes gained a six point lead in the first half and never let the Rebels do more than tie them. The final score was 29-24 with the game scoring honors going to Becky Vassar with 14 points and Barbara Guthrie with 12 points, both on the winning team. The Rebellettes were led by Susan Jennings with nine points and Judy Smith with eight points.

The next Rebellettes' game will be Friday night at 7 p.m. when they will face Brookville at Appomatox.

Lions To Meet Tonight-6:45 P.M.

LIONS of Appomattox will meet tonight at 6:45 p.m. at Maude's Restaurant. Lt. L. E. Thomas, Safety Committee chairman, is in charge.

Blood Donors Can Help

Dorothy Paulette, pictured above at the Hamilton's miniature railroad station in Evergreen, plans to return to school Monday, exactly one month from the date of her "open heart" surgery performed Dec. 18 at Medical College Hospital, Richmond. The four hour operation required the use of an automatic pump, twenty pints of blood, and intricate surgery to repair a three-quarter inch hole in Dorothy's heart. Dorothy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Paulette, are hoping that a large number of donors will volunteer blood at the Bloodmobile coming here February 1. Blood donors can "replace blood" used for Dorothy and the hundreds of other patients, young and old, who can look forward to a longer life with life-giving blood. February is "Heart Month."

Direct Distance Dialing Is Coming Here February 1st

Dial Any One Among 75,000,000 US - Canada

During the past week, telephone people have been explaining the new DDD (Direct Distance Dialing) system to students in the schools of Appomattox to acquaint them with one of the most vast and complex electronic systems in the present age, and a system which they will have at their beck and call beginning February 1, 1965, to dial anyone of over 75 million telephones in the United States and Canada from their own telephone. The telephone folks hope the students will go home and explain the setup a little bit to their parents as it would be nearly impossible for the Company to explain and demonstrate to all their customers, as was done at the high schools and elementary school.

Electronics is the heart of the system which permits a few dialing twists of the wrist to connect you with anyone of the millions of phones in the United States and Canada. While the new system of long distance calling is precise, it's not complicated. A few numbers to remember plus accurate use of the telephone dial and you're through to your party.

Long Distance Only

First remember that the new DDD system applies only to long distance calls and then only to station-to-station calls.

Long distance person-to-person calls, collect calls, credit card calls and coin telephone calls will still require you to dial Operator and place the call in the accustomed by video manner.

But when you are calling station-to-station (where you will talk with anyone who answers) on long distance, the new system coming in February 1 will apply.

It's automation on a grand scale, through the magic of many electronic circuits. Automation, if you haven't heard, is one machine telling another machine what to do. Here's the procedure.

Access Code

Dial "1" which connects your phone with the DDD system. That's the "access code" number. Then for calls to any point in Virginia, continue dialing the seven numerals of the telephone number of the telephone party you are calling.

For calls outside of the state of Virginia, a three digit area code number must be dialed after "1" and before the called party's seven numerals are dialed. The United States and Canada have been divided into more than 100 calling areas and each has been assigned a three number code. Using that code number connects you with circuits leading into that area and sets your call up for the final clincher. The actual number of the party you want.

Virginia's area code number is 703 which will be used by outside folks who are calling into this area but it is unnecessary when calls are placed within Virginia since you are already circuited with that area.

General Tips

Here are some tips in instruction from Appomattox Telephone Company. Dial carefully since mistakes will be more far reaching. Be sure of your number. listen for the dial tone, pull the dial all the way to the finger stop and let it return by itself.

After dialing the operator will come in on the line to ask you for your number. Give her the number you are calling from, so, so that a proper charge may be made.

Busy signal. Hang up and try calling a t e r a little wait.

Wrong number. If you've dialed improperly, try to determine the telephone number and what you have reached. Then dial operator immediately and tell her what happened, then you will not be billed for the mis placed call.

Information, please. If you do not know the number, say, for example, "Give me information for a number in Los Angeles." Or, information may be reached in some cities by dialing "1" then the area code then 555-1212 which is the universal number for information in those cities where such service has been established.

Local Calls. Don't bother about the DDD system. Use the procedure as in the past. This applies to all calls within the Appomattox and Pamplin exchanges and between the two exchanges. Only where there are toll charges involved before and the call would be made station-to station do you go to DDD.

Last Word. When the new phone directories are issued, better read the instructions in the front carefully. It's all in there for guidance. The new long distance rates which go into effect February 1, are lower on station-to-station calls and offer further inducement to dial your own numbers.

While discussing the local telephone situation with the telephone folks, Keith Schuler, of Farmville, and President of the Company, stated he was pleased the Company could bring this added and improved service to their customers who now exceed 2,000 in this area. This is a substantial growth during the 16 years the company has operated here and has been brought about by the cooperation, understanding and support of the people of this area. Schuler pointed out the Company has kept pace with improvement and expansion in the area, equipment additions are now being installed in the Appomattox central office which will increase its capacity by 40 percent. Two hundred more lines are being added, at a cost of approximately $50,000, and will be completed about April. During the past summer while the telephone lines were being moved to make way for widening of highway 460 west of Appomattox, additional cables were placed which doubled the capacity of the lines all the way from the Appomattox central office to Spout Springs. After other cable additions similar to this one are completed during the next two years, the Company plans to reduce the maximum number of subscribers on all rural lines from the present 8 down to 6. When rural lines were established several years ago, there were up to 20 parties per line. In 1951 these were reduced to 10 and in 1960 and 61, there were reduced the present 8 party maximum. The planned reduction to 6 will further improve the rural service. During the time this work is being done, the Company will continue to make extensions of lines in the rural areas to serve people who have not heretofore been served.

The local company is one of 2,700 such companies which operate independent of the large Bell System. Surprisingly these companies serve a geographic area of the U. S. which is about the same size as that served by the Bell System. To serve their areas the independents actually operate about 50 percent more telephone offices than the Bell System but with only about 20 percent of the customers. These facts point up their problem, which is, how to serve people scattered over a wide area, economically and profitably.

When you consider the large area within which we can make "local" calls (Appomattox, Pamplin, Hisburg, Vera, Oakville, Spout Spring, Red House, Madisonville and Darlington Heights, the high quality of our service and the reasonableness of our telephone rates compared to those around us, you can agree whole heartedly that our home telephone service has come a long way toward solving this problem.

Keith Schuler, president of the Appomattox Telephone Company, demonstrates Direct Distance Dialing as Joan Coleman looks on and Lester Mayberry "in San Francisco" says "hello" using the new dialing procedure. Direct dialing goes into effect here February 1. The US map with lighted DDD areas was shown to pupils in Appomattox Elementary, Appomattox High School and Carver-Price this week. Both Joan and Lester are fourth grade pupils of Mrs. Thelma Martin. Joan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Coleman. Lester is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mayberry.

Dimes Campaign Now Underway

The 1965 March of Dimes campaign is underway and funds will be solicited during the month of January, it was announced by H. W. Conner, Chairman. Although the dread dicease, polio, seems to have been conquered, the National Foundation still needs money for research in the fields of arthritis and birth defects. A birth defects treatment center has recently been opened in Charlottesville and part of the funds collected during the last campaign went toward the establishment of this very worthy cause, according to Conner.

Assisting in this campaign are John McLean, Business and Individual Collections, all of the county students, and again "The Faithful Mothers March" organized by Mrs. Crawford David- son.In addition, cards for the collection of dimes have been placed in all three Appomattox County banks, Bell Furniture Company, and the Post Office. Ralph Reynolds will receive all donations at the Farmers National Bank.

Town License Deadline 31st

Anyone doing business within the town of Appomattox must obtain his license by January 31 according to an announcement by Town Manager, C. J. Hunter. This includes all merchants, persons who rent rooms or furnish "board" — and all other kinds of business activity, said Hunter.

New Superintendent Named For National Historical Park

Lloyd M. Pierson, age 44, has been appointed Superintendent Appomattox Court House National Historical Park, according to an announcement today by Elbert Cox, Regional Director of the Southeast Region of the National Park Service.

Pierson, a native of Toledo, Ohio, is a graduate of the University of New Mexico and a longtime career employee in the National Park Service. He has had extensive experience as an archeologist and park administrator in the South - western National Monuments of New Mexico and Utah. He has also served as a District Park Ranger at Shenandoah National Park in Virginia, and most recently as Superintendent of De Soto National Memorial in Bradenton, Florida.

In announcing the selection of Pierson to succeed Grover E. Steele as Superintendent of Appomattox, Mr. Cox said that he was happy to have available an experienced career employee of the National Park Service to assume responsibilities at Appomattox at this important period in the Park's history. As a part of the Centennial year in Appomattox, the old courthouse has been reconstructed, with the interior furnished as a Visitor Center and auditorium, the exterior being a reconstruction of the original building which stood on this site at the time of the Confederate surrender on April 9, 1865.

Cox said that one of Pierson's first responsibilities at Appomattox will be to firm up the plans for appropriate commemoration of the surrender anniversary. In carrying out those plans he will be working closely with the Virginia Civil War Commission and with local authorities in Appomattox County.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson, their teen-age son and teen-age daughter, will occupy quarters in the Park. They are expected to move to Appomattox about the middle of January.
